BEAUTIFUL STANLEY PARK

is the most delightful place in Southern California. Nestled in the Santa Ynez Mountains, an hour's motor drive from Santa Barbara and but three hour's from Los Angeles, it has always been a most popular "vacationists' paradise." The two mile run after leaving the state highway is a road scarcely less smooth, and is one of the beauty drives of this far famed locality. A mountain stream of rare charm flows through the canyon, adding its gift to the attractions of the park with picturesque falls and refreshing pools. Numerous trails, clearly marked, are a source of constant surprise and delight in scenic beauty to those who love to tramp. A half hour ride also brings one to as fine a stretch of ocean beach for surf bathing and beach picnics, as can be found anywhere along the Pacific Coast as convenient as this to the mountains.

The Stanley Park Lodge, is the center of a number of bungalows, all attractively furnished, lighted by electricity, and provided with baths. A Shaded Patio offers an additional attraction to people who prefer to dine out of doors. The cuisine is unexcelled, fresh vegetables being furnished from the Park Gardens.
